Biographical and Administrative histories

1. Newspapers acquired by Andrew Dunn and his family

Andrew Dunn was born on 4 May 1854 in Greenock Scotland. As a young man he worked as a tea merchant and architectural draughtsman. In 1879 he married Katharine McIntyre (1854 – 1889). The couple migrated to Queensland in 1880 and had five sons. Andrew Dunn started a building business in Toowoomba and Katharine Dunn became head of the Girls' South State School. In 1885 they moved to Maryborough, so that she could take up a position at the Central Girls' School. She died there on 5 July 1889 and the Dunns five sons were sent to Scotland to be cared for by their paternal grandmother. Their youngest son Lorne (1889 – 1890) died there in infancy. By 1888 Andrew Dunn had become business manager of the Maryborough Chronicle. With bonuses paid to him he started acquiring shares and by 1891 was Chairman of the company. On 18 November 1891 he married Jane Cran of Yengarie. They had two sons and two daughters.

In 1911 Andrew Dunn junior (1880 - 1956) was working for Rockhampton newspaper The Morning Bulletin when the death of one its owners, John Blair, provided the opportunity for Andrew Dunn senior to purchase a controlling interest in the newspaper. Andrew junior became managing editor and William Herbert ‘Herbie’ Allan (1883 – 1961) chief-of-staff. In 1918 another son, James McIntyre Dunn (1881 – 1925), became the business manager for the newspaper. Over time most of Andrew Dunn’s children were involved in the newspaper business in a variety of roles.

From 1914 onwards Andrew Dunn made several further acquisitions of provincial newspapers beginning with the Warwick Argus. In 1919 the Dunns amalgamated this paper with the Irwin family’s Warwick Examiner and Times to form the Warwick Daily News. In November 1919 The Wide Bay and Burnett News was acquired and merged with the Maryborough Chronicle. In June 1922, Dunn acquired a controlling interest of The Toowoomba Chronicle and merged it with its competitor, the Darling Downs Gazette. In July 1929, he purchased The Evening News in Rockhampton.

2. Provincial Newspapers Queensland Pty Ltd and previous Dunn Family companies

In 1929 the Dunns began holding family meetings as A. Dunn and Family. The family directed decisions such as capital expenditure and appointments of senior staff at the newspapers it owned. In 1957 the family incorporated to form A. Dunn and Co. Pty Ltd. In 1966 the name of the company was changed to Provincial Newspapers (Qld.) Pty Ltd.

3. Associated Press of Queensland

Formed in 1910, the association merged into Queensland Country Press Ltd in 1918.

4. Queensland Provincial Newspapers

Possibly a predecessor organisation to the Queensland Division of Australian Provincial Daily Press Ltd, later Regional Dailies of Australia (see. 7.)

5. Queensland Country Press Association

Established in 1907 by Andrew Dunn and other newspaper proprietors. Dunn served several times as president, and consistently on the executive committee until his death in 1934.

Formed in 1914, the Queensland Country Press Ltd business was a business subsidiary of the Queensland Country Press Association to sell state and national advertising on a block basis. It was also known as the Queensland Country Press Cooperative Company Ltd.

7. Regional Dailies of Australia (Qld Div.), previously Australian Provincial Daily Press Ltd (Qld Div.)

8. Provincial Newspapers (Qld.) Ltd.

In 1968 the holding company Provincial Newspapers (Qld.) Ltd. was formed as a result of the merger of the Dunn, Manning and Irwin family businesses, along with newspaper businesses of a further three Ipswich families. The Dunn family company’s name Provincial Newspapers (Qld.) was adopted for the merged company. The business became a publicly listed company and was known as PNQ. Through its acquisition of the Melbourne-based Herald and Weekly Times (HWT) on 6 February 1987 Rupert Murdoch’s News Ltd indirectly acquired a large parcel of shares in PNQ, which, in combination with other part-owned companies with shares in PNQ, gave News Ltd 48.6% of all PNQ shares. Taking a State-based approach the Trade Practices Commission (TPC) approved the News Ltd takeover of HWT but determined that in Queensland the acquisition would give News Ltd too much market share. The TPC advised that News Ltd should onsell its PNQ shares. On 26th July 1988 News Ltd sold to Haswell Pty. Ltd., a company set up by Irish entrepreneur Anthony O’Reilly, principal shareholder of Independent Newspapers Plc of Ireland. Australian regulatory authorities approved the sale as Haswell was the purchasing vehicle for a family trust, whose beneficiaries were the six children of O’Reilly and his Australian wife. On 3 November 1988 PNQ was renamed Australian Provincial Newspapers Ltd (APN).
