Biography
Erik Roberts is a part-time teacher of media at Toowong College, and is currently (at time of production September 2001), involved in a multi-media performance, “Elektrosonic Interference”, to be staged at the Powerhouse in Brisbane. In 2001 Roberts completed a series of animation workshops with local Indigenous and Samoan high school students. Roberts’ previous films include: Hand-Crafted Cinema – the Animated Films of Caroline Leaf; The Stainless Light – the Tibetan Kalachakra ‘Wheel of Time’ Mandala; Anymata – A Shopping Trolley Named Desire and The Nameless. Umpi Korumba (originally titled Round Brisbane) is a short film, produced for the Centenary of Federation with the assistance of QPIX. It is one in a series of 4 films entitled Time & Light: Four impressions of Brisbane. The film makes extensive use of images from the Alcock Collection of glass slides (UQFL256) from the Fryer Library, University of Queensland.

Background of Films
The aim was to approach the visual heritage of Brisbane, represented by the Fryer Library’s unique photographic collections, with naïve curiosity, to search for emotional connections and resonances with the present. An experimental process was used to capture small miscellaneous photographs and glass slides using a state-of-the-art medical endoscope and a digital camera. Using this technology and a simple tripod to pan millimetres above the image surface, movement could be introduced and the minute detail of each image could literally be brought to life.
