Biography
Sean Williams was born in Whyalla, South Australia in 1967. He is a prolific science fiction writer with an international reputation. Author of over sixty published short stories and eighteen novels, including the Books of the Change and The Resurrected Man, his work has been published around the world in numerous languages and online. His novel The Crooked Letter was the first fantasy novel in the history of Australian speculative fiction to win both the Ditmar and Aurealis Awards. He lives in Adelaide, where he served as Chair of the SA Writers’ Centre from 2001 to 2003.

Series A: Diaries, Notebooks and Schoolbooks

This series includes 21 diaries written between 1986 and 1999. The diaries contain references to Williams’ writing schedule, as well as day-to-day entries on appointments, travels, etc. There are also three notebooks and six schoolbooks from the 1970s. Williams notes that these diaries ‘cover my early days of writing, plus the period immediately before then, when I was jotting down ideas and agonizing about whether to be a writer or not.’

Music

Dozens of sketches for pieces composed between 1983 and 1992 (mostly in the early range of that period but some from the early 1990s). Included are “Release of Anger” (theme and three variations), which won the 1984 Young Composer’s Award, plus my 1984 Matriculation submission (“I Kontakt/Eye Contact” and other works). The box also included assignments, assessments, the exegesis accompanying my Matric exegesis, lyrics, etc. (It was a lot more interesting than I expected to be!)
