Brian Stevenson Collection

Size 17 boxes, 2 parcels

Contents Research notes and copies of Hansard pages, political ephemera, journal articles, newspaper cuttings, interview transcripts and other papers and records collected by Brian Stevenson in the course of his PhD research on Vincent (Vince) Clare Gair, former Queensland Premier and Senator for Queensland. The collection contains drafts of Stevenson’s PhD chapters.

Date range 1932 to 2006

Biography Vincent (Vince) Gair was one of Australia’s most controversial political figures. Having won the Queensland State seat of South Brisbane for the Australian Labor Party in 1932, Gair had a slow rise to prominence, becoming Treasurer in 1950 and Premier in 1952, following the death of Ned Hanlon. Gair led the ALP to large victories in the 1953 and 1956 Queensland elections, but was expelled from the Party in 1957 over his association with the anti-Communist Industrial Groups and his attempts to restrict the influence within the party of both the conservative Australian Workers’ Union and the left-wing Trades and Labor Council. The expulsion led to a split, with the entire Queensland Cabinet resigning to form the Queensland Labor Party under Gair’s leadership. Labor lost office in the ensuing election and Gair lost his own seat in 1960. In 1964 Gair was elected to the Commonwealth Parliament as a Democratic Labor Party senator for Queensland, the Queensland Labor Party having merged with the DLP in 1962. He was also elected DLP leader. In 1974 Gair accepted an offer from the Whitlam Government to become Australia’s Ambassador to the Republic of Eire. Again, expulsion followed, this time from the DLP. After a controversial tenure in Ireland he was recalled in 1976. Gair died in Brisbane in November 1980.
