Biography
Frederick Walter Robinson (known as "Doc Robbie") was born in Sydney in 1888. He was educated at Sydney High, University of Sydney and the University of Jena. He was Associate Professor of Modern Languages at Royal Military College Duntroon (1913-1932), and Captain and Intelligence Officer in the AIF (1915-1919). F.W. Robinson lectured in English and German at The University of Queensland (1923-1945), and later became Associate Professor of English (1946-1958). He was in the General Staff Office as a Major (Intelligence) in 1941-42. He presented the Commonwealth Literary Fund Australian Literature Seminars and Lectures at The University of Queensland in 1944 and 1958, and at Sydney University in 1946. F.W. Robinson also set up the Fryer Memorial Library of Australian Literature at The University of Queensland. For many years he was associated with the Oxley Library, the Queensland Art Gallery and other cultural institutions. He played a large part in the planning of the University of Queensland at St. Lucia. F.W. Robinson died in 1971.

Notes
Unrestricted access
Material in this collection may contain culturally sensitive words or descriptions.
Professor Robinson researched some of the history of St. Lucia in 1952. Much of his work has been updated, built on and incorporated into the St. Lucia History Group Research Papers, Vol. 1, Nos. 1 – 5, published in 2004, prepared by Peter Brown.
Papers relating to the planning of the present site of the University of Queensland, and other University matters, are stored with other historical University records. Papers relating to his Duntroon period have been returned to the Royal Military College, except for some personal correspondence. Portions of the collection were rehoused in 2015 and box numbers were reallocated. Refer to the chart at the end of this listing to convert old box numbers to new numbers.
